Delays in the diagnosis of cancer in a patient depend upon the stage at diagnosis, and the stage at diagnosis depends on the risk factors for that disease. Risk factors include clinical risk factors that predict the likelihood of malignancy in a patient, pathological risk factors that predict the likelihood of malignancy in a patient, and screening risk factors that predict the likelihood of malignancy in a patient. In this article, we discuss a research agenda for the development of novel non-invasive diagnostic imaging, biomarkers and delays in the diagnosis of cancer. Q: How to set system properties used by Grails application? I'm starting a Grails 2.2 application, which (for various reasons) needs to use a different Java version than was used to create it. Specifically, I'm using Java 1.8 with Grails 2.2.3 on Windows 7. I have a working Grails project that uses Grails 2.2.3 with Java 1.6 (used to create the project), so I'm guessing this is just a case of setting some system properties on my machine. Based on various articles, I tried adding the following system properties to my setenv.cmd and setenv.sh scripts on Windows: set "JAVA_HOME=C:\Program Files\Java\jdk1.8.0_51" set "JAVA_OPTIONS=-Djava.net.preferIPv4Stack=true -Dfile.encoding=UTF-8" Then, when running my application, I get the following error: ClassNotFoundException: org.
